

PROJECT CHRYSALIS: PHASE TWO

As we are now 17 days from future in the MoGian calendar, it feels appropriate to be looking forward, and to be announcing that Project Chrysalis has entered Phase Two.

What does this mean? Well, The Director has determined that their current mental health has stabilised sufficiently to enable forward thinking both in terms of direction of travel, and having an overall positive outlook.

Most recently this has been exemplified by their participation in the Leeds International Film Festival, and their active engagement in the films on show.

Their own personal relationship with themselves is also beginning to flourish, and are developing and deepening with those closest to them.

Perhaps the clearest indicator of this project moving into a new phase is the emergence of clear milestones in the coming weeks and series; specifically one around yule, another around dan and the third at the conclusion of gorilla into the new MoGian year.

As a result, this announcement is intended to update those with a care to follow the Director's exploits. Further details will be shared in a more informal communications, in keeping with the festive period.
