

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

It has become both evident and apparent to the Director that they no longer recognise themselves. Either as the sum of their experiences, or in the understanding of others.

Importantly, there are some others that have an understanding, and there are some that the Director wishes to understand better – including themselves.

Effective immediately, the Director announces Project Chrysalis. A personal reconciliation of current and future identity; both with themselves and those most dear and close to them.

To this effect, all other Ministry projects are suspended indefinitely.

This includes (but is not limited to) Project Passport; danplan; IGTE; DJStead's! Email! Blast!; and others.

However this does not impact regular Department operations – for example, the Department of the Treasury will continue to monitor all finances.

It is anticipated that Project Chrysalis will bring about some change; it is after all, a metaphor.

This project will involve examining anything and everything that is currently a part of the Director's world, and understanding it's inherent and relative value towards enriching or enhancing the Director's life.

It is by no means certain what the direction of travel will be both during this process, and beyond.

It is also anticipated that any resulting changes will affect, and potentially both sever or extend all manner of relationships.

However, the Director believes this process is fundamentally necessary to recover their mental health, and rediscover what is most important to them. Ultimately, they are the most important element to this whole Ministry; and without clarity and purpose – they are lost.

The Department of Internet and Communications have advised that whilst messaging channels remain open; presence and activity on these (and other channels) will be minimal for the foreseeable.

However, all Important People on the Director's Emergency Information document will absolutely be able to connect with them as before. There should be no cause for concern.

As this project develops, all current elements of the Director's existence will be pressure tested (in what feels like an appropriate timeframe to the Director), and feedback requested if needed, and assessed on a rolling basis.

This may sound vague and project speak for 'I'm not too sure how this will pan out'; but there you have your reason.

The Director hopes to conclude this project within the current year of 7.agenesis; but that may be optimistic. Either way, updates will follow both then and intermittently in the meantime, should the Director deem them suitable.
